

Save the date!

Day of Prayer
Saturday 3rd July 2010

St Asaph Cathedral
North Wales

The smallest ancient cathedral in Britain

11 am start
Interpreted Guide Tour
Service in Sign Language
All are welcome!

Saint Kentigern built his Church in AD560. When he returned to Strathclyde in AD573 he left Asaph as his successor. Since that time the Cathedral has been dedicated to Saint Asaph and the Diocese bears his name. The present building was begun in the thirteenth century and is reputed to be the smallest ancient cathedral in Great Britain.

Opportunity to pray in sign language, meet friends, socialise and enjoy a day's outing.
More information later.